ALAMO MASSACRE FRESH IN MEMORY

ACCOUNT OF GREAT SLAUGHTER OF EIGHTY YEARS AGO
RETOLD.

NOT A DEFENDER LEFT

After Most Heroic Defense Ever Known Perhaps, None Survive Battle.

"Thermopylae had its messengers of death, but the Alamo had none." Not a defender of the old stone mission house and fortress, which stands today in San Antonio, Tex., survived to tell the story when the Alamo fell eighty years ago before 4,000 frenzied Mexicans. The battle cry that had its origin in that blood-soaked compound of scarred walls and its defenders' ashes has never been forgotten.

"Remember the Alamo!" ran the word through Texas, and Texas remembered. At San Jacinto, Tex., troops, eleven hundred of them, shouted to one another hoarsely, "Remember the Alamo," and men remembered how Davy Crockett had died, ringed around with dead Mexicans, and "Jim" Bowie, and Col. Travis; and at San Jacinto the power of Mexico was broken forever as far as Texas was concerned.

Texas remembers the Alamo today, when rumblings and rumors of new bloodshed run up and down the border, when the bodies of Americans slaughtered on scattered ranches, in mining villages, even on American soil, cry out for vengeance. You do not wonder that hatred of the Mexican burns deep in these border folks, when you look back upon the blood-stained pages of their past—and "remember the Alamo."

Texas, settled by hardy frontiersmen and backwoodsmen, had revolted against the rule of Santa Anna, dictator of Mexico, and declared itself independent. That independence it won without the aid of the United States, and the most heroic struggle of the fight was the Alamo.

The Alamo was on old stone and "dobe" mission house, built in the early Eighteenth century and used occasionally by Spaniards and Mexicans as a fort and arsenal. There, when Santa Anna came up with his 4,000 over 600 miles of desert in February, 1836, the little handful of Americans, 150 strong, under Col. William Travis, made their stand. It was a desperate venture from the start, a forlorn hope. If Houston came down from the North in time rescue was possible, otherwise—what could 150 men hope to do against 4,000?

There were Mexican troops already between him and the Alamo when Davy Crockett, frontiersman, hunter, soldier under Jackson and one time member of Congress, made his way into the fortress. From the roof of the old building the Americans saw the dust of Santa Anna's army coming up from the south.

There were a few old cannon in the Alamo, thirty head of beef cattle, ninety bushels of corn. But when Santa Anna sent a messenger demanding the fort's immediate surrender Col. Travis refused promptly and fired one of his cannon. In the camp of the Mexicans they raised a blood red flag, and that meant no quarter. The frontiersmen knew how the Mexicans not only slew, but mutilated their enemies.

February 23 the siege began and it continued until March 6. The Mexicans had artillery, but they could not bring it close. The Texas riflemen were too skillful in picking off the gunners. At one cannon Davy Crockett picked off five gunners in succession and the Mexicans could not even drag it back to a safer position until after dark. The Americans threw out a thin skirmish line beyond their fortifications and the long rifles did deadly work.

Bowie, desperately ill of typhoid fever, was constantly alert, constantly asking whether there was any news of succor from the north. There was none.

Day after day rifle balls and cannon shot fell within the inclosure. Day after day men fell and their bodies were piled in a dark room on the first floor of the old building.

And outside very many little brown soldiers, in their gaudy jaunty uniforms, fell down and writhed a little on the ground, and, soiled with blood and dust, lay still forever.

A band of thirty-two rangers knowing well enough that they were riding to their death, hacked their way, cheering, through the Mexican lines and joined the haggard fighters in the Alamo.

Agreed To Fight To The Last.

It was March 3 when Col. Travis, in a lull of the fighting, called his garrison around him. He explained that it was hopeless any longer to expect assistance; that the fight was hopeless; that there were two things to do. One was to haul down the Lone Star flag and surrender the fortress. There was silence at that. The other was to die defending the Alamo. The faces of the defenders of the Alamo brightened and grew resolute at that. Travis drew his sword out of its scabbard and drew a line on the earthen floor between him and his men.

"I propose to stay here," he said quietly, "until I am killed. All those who will be with me will come to this side of the line; all who wish to surrender will remain on that side."

Every man of the garrison crossed the line. Col. Bowie, inventor of the famous knife, who was desperately ill of typhoid fever, had his cot picked up and carried over. Davy Crockett leaped over like a boy, waving his coonskin cap.

The morning of March 6 the Alamo fell. The Mexican army, infuriated by almost two weeks of delay caused by these stubborn gringos, came on to storm the convent. Field pieces opened breaches in the walls. Mexican soldiers carried ladders to plant against the walls, and other Mexicans swarmed up the ladders. Hand to hand they fought with the Texans at the top of the wall. But the defenders' line was all too thin.

ROBBER LOCKS CASHIER
IN VAULT, GETS $900

Jarballo, Kan., July 8.—An unmasked robber locked Kelly Moore, the cashier, into the vault of the Jarballo State Bank here to-day and escaped with about $900. He ran to an automobile in which two men were seated and the car sped away toward Kansas City, less than thirty miles east of here. Moore released himself ten minutes later, and other citizens in a high-powered motor car started in pursuit.

GERMAN MONSTER SUBMARINE LANDS

TEUTON'S UNDER SEA CRAFT IS

ELUDES MEN OF WAR

Is British Blockade Broken By This
New German Way of Navigation?

Baltimore, July 10.—Upon delivering his ship's papers to the office of the North German Lloyd line today, Capt. Konig, of the submarine merchantman Deutschland, which reached Chesapeake Bay yesterday from Bremen, issued a formal statement declaring his voyage across the Atlantic had broken England's rule of the seas.

At the same time the captain disposed finally of the report that he carried a message from Emperor William to President Wilson, saying there was no foundation for the story.

The statement, typewritten on the stationery of the Deutsche Ozean-Rhederei G. M. B. H., Bremen, announced that the Deutschland was the first of several submarines built for the trans-Atlantic trade, and that she would be followed by the "Berlin."

All during the night a considerable part of the Deutschland's crew had been astir and a small searchlight played almost constantly upon a newspaper yacht anchored near by. The tug Thomas F. Timmons, conveying the submarine, also kept the yacht under close surveillance.

Captain's Statement.

Following is the statement: "The submarine Deutschland, which I have the honor to command, is the first of several submarines, built to order of the Deutsche Ozean-Rhederei G. M. B. H., Bremen. She will be followed by the Bremen shortly.

Cargo of Dyestuffs.

"We have brought a most valuable cargo of dyestuffs to our American friends, dyestuffs which have been so much needed in America, and which the ruler of the seas has not allowed the great American republic to import. While England will not allow anybody the same right of the ocean, because she rules the waves, we have by means of the submarine commenced to break this rule.

"Great Britain, cannot, however, hinder boats such as ours to go and come as we please. Our trip passing Dover across the ocean was an uneventful one. When danger approached we went below the surface, and here we are safe in American port, ready to return in due course.

"I am not in a position to give you full details regarding our trip across the ocean, in view of our enemies. Our boat has a displacement of about 2,000 tons and a speed of more than fourteen knots. Needless to say that we are quite unarmed and only a peaceful merchantman.

Will Carry Mails.

"Our boats will carry across the Atlantic the mails and save them from British interruption.

"We trust that the old friendly relationship with the United States going back to the days of Washington, when it was Prussia who was the first to help America in its fight for freedom from British rule, will awake afresh in your beautiful and powerful country.

"The house flag of the Deutsche Ozean-Rhederei is the old Bremen flag—red and white stripes, with the coat of arms of the town the key in the corner. This key is the sign that we have opened the gates which Great Britain tried to shut upon us and the trade of the world. The gates which we opened with this key will not be shut again. Open door to the trade of the world and freedom of the oceans and equal rights to all nations on the oceans will be guaranteed by Germany's victory in this struggle for our existence."

Avoided Men-of-War.

"We did not on the entire trip come into close proximity with any man-of-war. We avoided them all. It was very simple.

"From the North Sea we went straight through the English channel, which is alive with warships, and on the night of the fourth day we submerged and remained still all night on the ground, on the bottom of the channel. There were lots of cruisers near us we knew, and it was very foggy. So we thought it wise not to take any chances, and I gave the order to submerge for the night and until there should be clearer weather. The next morning all was well and we proceeded through the channel into the Atlantic Ocean without incident.

"Our trip has demonstrated that the big merchant submarine is practical and that it has come to stay. We expect the venture to be a great financial success. This ship can carry a cargo of 1,000 tons, and on this trip carried 750 tons of dyestuffs, valued at $1,000,000. The charges for the shipment alone will pay for the cost of the Deutschland, about $500,000. On this trip we carried no mails, nor did we carry money or securities. Also we came without insurance, running entirely at our own risk."

How Delay Occurred.

It was learned that boat left Bremen with her load of about 750 tons of valuable dyestuffs, which her owners hope to sell to American manufacturers for a fortune. At Helgoland she waited nine days, leaving there June 23 to plow deep beneath the surface of the North Sea to escape the watchful eyes of the allied blockaders. Capt. Konig intimated that the purpose of his long delay at Helgoland was to deceive the enemy, who undoubtedly had heard rumors of the submarine's coming. "We stopped there for very good reasons," the captain explained with a broad smile.

This accounted for the belief in the United States that the vessel was a week overdue, a misapprehension that caused German embassy officials to fear that she had run into allied warships or fallen victim of an Atlantic storm.

In Open Sea.

Once outside the blockading lines and into the Atlantic, according to the captain's story, he headed straight across and only deviated from the course once when he saw what he took to be enemy craft. Most of the time he sped along on the surface, making around fourteen knots an hour with his powerful twin Diesel oil engines. Submerged he could go at the rate of seven and a half knots.

Path Clear.

Approaching the capes late Saturday, Capt. Konig found his path apparently clear. He laid to with his decks awash, however, waiting until darkness fell before nearing the coast. When the bright half moon went down, shortly after midnight, he put on all speed and shot between the Virginia capes, to be greeted by the tug Timmons, sent there more than a week before to await his coming.

Carefully Guarded.

When the vessel was released from quarantine she moved up the river to the pier of the Eastern Forwarding Company, six miles away, to a carefully guarded waiting berth. On the way up she passed a dozen merchantmen lying at anchor. The first, a big Norwegian freighter, dipped her flag and her whole ship's company lined against the rail, raised three rousing cheers, which were answered with a will. With another Norwegian and two Dutch ships the submarine exchanged formal salutes. She moved close by a number of British tramps in silence, observed with eager interest by the English crews.

At the dock the boat hardly was tied up before an army of newspaper men and moving picture photographers stormed the place. They were not permitted to get near the Deutschland, protected by a barbed wire stockade and numerous guards, but Capt. Konig soon appeared on shore and cheerfully posed before the camera.

MAN CRAZED, OIL BOOM
SAID TO BE THE CAUSE

Lexington, Ky., July 8.—Charles Rice, of Estill county, was brought to the Eastern Kentucky Hospital for the Insane here today, a raving maniac.

He is said to have been crazed by the clamors of oil prospectors who sought to buy the mineral rights of his lands, which adjoin those on which a rich oil strike was made.

Rice is a large land owner of Estill county.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY AIR TORPEDOES

EYE-WITNESS, A GERMAN, TELLS OF TRENCH DAMAGE IN AL-LIES' DRIVE.

BOMB PROOFS BURIED

Digging Buried Comrades From Ruins Great Difficulty To Teutons.

Berlin, July 7 (Delayed).—An eye witness account of the Anglo-French offensive is given in dispatches from Lieut. Dambitsch, one of the editors of the Zeitung am Mittag, whose company was stationed in the trenches near the Somme River.

The Lieutenant was wounded during the preparatory bombardment, but there long enough to witness the almost indescribable destruction wrought in the front-line trenches by the artillery. He says that the massively-built positions had been regarded as virtually indestructible and impregnable, but the event proved that the progress in the development of offensive tactics since the September offensive had not been realized.

"At the beginning of artillery operations," says the Lieutenant, "the enemy showed the Germans a new thing in the way of attacking observation balloons. An aviator swooped down on one of these and shot rifle balls from above, a burst of flame marking the end of the balloon."

Aerial Mines Play Havoc.

"The second day's bombardment, June 26, brought another surprise in the shape of aerial mines of unheard-of calibre, which were thrown in incredible numbers. The explosion of the first air torpedo shattered by its tremendous detonation the windows of the bomb-proofs and threw up a massive pillar of black earth perhaps a hundred yards. This showered the whole neighborhood with roofs, bricks and earth. This was a regular Vesuvius eruption. The destructive effects of this uninterrupted throwing of the heaviest mines were almost immediately visible. The entrances to two bomb-proofs were buried and the inmates had to be removed."

A few minutes later an orderly sent with a message to the left of a company, returned, reporting that the trench had been completely leveled. Lieut. Dambitsch, going to observe, saw as far as the eye could reach crater after crater six feet deep, the earth between being torn up in a wild, high chaos of trench timbers and wire entanglements. "The work of day and night for nine months," says the chronicler, "was destroyed in a few minutes. Report after report arrived of bomb-proofs demolished by aerial torpedoes, burying the inmates. The trenches became rapidly leveled; communication between the sections was extremely difficult."

"The third lines were so heavily shelled that it was impossible to traverse them. An orderly sent to a Captain was hours under way. On the left flank the company trench was so obliterated that it was difficult to trace it. The only means of progress was to dash from crater to crater fully exposed to the enemy fire while crossing the intervening ridges. Finally he arrived, after a period of intense danger, and found the left platoon of the company in the same condition as the right platoon. A number of men were still buried in the demolished bomb-proofs. Their comrades worked for hours extricating them."

Surgeon Works Under Fire.

"During this work, an intrepid battalion surgeon arrived with an oxygen apparatus and stood for hours under a heavy artillery fire, ministering to the half-buried and attempting to revive those asphyxiated."

"The bombardment continued without cessation, aerial torpedoes being hurled from ranges such as was never before known for mine-throwers, and the French artillery pounded every yard of ground with an intense fire of big shells."

The Lieutenant describes how welcome reinforcements were sent that night, "quite as much to assist in digging out those buried as to contribute to the defense." He was leading them to positions among the demoralized trenches when he and his orderly were wounded by an exploding torpedo. They were sent to the hospital, thus missing the infantry attacks.

ORIGIN AND EVOLUTION OF ORDINARY MATCHES

The first known method of producing a "light" was by the laborious process of friction, the rubbing of one dry piece of wood against another. It is said that savages noticed that forest fires occurred during wind, and observation showed them that it was the "sawing" of branch against branch that caused the flames. Hence the "friction" light.

The flint and steel and tinder box superseded wood friction, and that improvement was also due to observation. It was seen that the chipping of the flints for arrow heads produced sparks, and hence the evolution of the flint, steel, and tinder "lighter."

After a series of attempts crude forerunners of the automatic lighter of today came the sulphur match. This, however, was not complete in itself. The tip, made of a paste of chlorate of potash, sulphur, colophony, vermillion, and gum, had to be dipped into a bottle containing sulphuric acid and rapidly withdrawn. An explosive flame was thereby generated which set fire to the match.

The next match was the Promethian. The tip of this was made of chlorate of potash, sugar, and gum, and the sulphuric acid—necessary to make it fire—was, with some of the paste, in a glass bead.

This cumbersome method was superseded in 1832 by the friction match proper. It was ignited by being drawn through folded sandpaper. This was a phosphorous match, and was but a variation of the friction principle. These matches were dangerous and poisonous.

After a time came the safety match, as we know it. A change in the phosphorous brought about the "safety" to the workers and the users.

WILL ATTEMPT RESCUE OF HIS CREW

SIR ERNEST SHACKLETON WILL GO SOUTH ON MISSION OF RELIEF.

London, July 10 (12:03 a. m.).—A Reuter dispatch from Buenos Aires says that Sir Ernest Shackleton expects to start a week hence for Elephant Island in another attempt to rescue the main body of his Antarctic expedition. He will sail on the schooner Emma.

Sir Ernest Shackleton has made two vain attempts to rescue his former comrades. The last effort was made in a steamer furnished by the Uruguayan Government, but the ship was unable to make her way through the ice and had to return. Twenty-two men have been in an ice cave on Elephant Island since April 15. At that time they had only five weeks' provisions. There are several schooners named Emma, but none is reported by available shipping records at Buenos Aires.

Why don't the bald headed men organize to suppress the fly jokes?

The abundant rains which have fallen throughout this section this week have done wonders to the growing crop.

Some of the Democrats appear to be sure that Mr. Wilson will again be a successful candidate this fall, but we tell you right now, not on our whiskers, will you win.

With a old Jimbo and the Bull Moose drawing closer together it's good night to the Democratic donkey. The pressure will be too great and the donkey smashed.

If President Wilson don't shoot into the Carranza gang with another one of those 42 centimeter nose and the said Carranza administration will stop shooting Wilson with those little squirt gun notes loaded with pepper juice, we will perhaps have a piece of peace.

New York is having a battle with infantile paralysis. The dreadful disease has taken some 400 infants the past few days. Other large cities throughout the country report a few cases. This largely fatal disease is easily scattered, therefore hard to stamp out. Another reason why we should at once clean up our premises.

With the season of typhoid fever and other ailments usual in the hot months, now upon us, every citizen of Hartford should get busy in removing all refuse matter of every sort from their premises. By no means do not allow decaying vegetation &c., in which lurks the cause of much sickness and perhaps many deaths, to lie around. Yes, this refuse lies in two ways, it breeds and conceals disease, suffering and often death. Let's clean up.

After the manufacturers of this country have had practically two years of fat profits in the manufacture and sale of war munitions, and it looks just a bit like something might happen at an early date to stop the war and last but by no means least on the eve of the Presidential election, the Democrats propose to lay a special tax on the hateful (?) war munitions manufacture's profit. Why have they waited until just before the election to see this new light?

To read a majority of the Louisville daily papers, one would hardly think that Kentucky had more than one regiment in the National Guard, yet we have three. We do not grumble because there is so much said about the First, but we do think that the out-of-Louisville readers are entitled to hear a bit more of the Second and Third and the Louisville allies constitute the only channel thru which very much of the soldier boys doings may come to us of the rural districts.

A bill appropriating $85,000,000 to be apportioned among the various States to aid in public road building has just passed both houses of Congress and been approved by the President. The bill provides that the States shall put up a certain sum in order to obtain their portion and in order to secure State aid the counties are required to put up at least as much as is set apart by the State, that is, in Kentucky. As it now stands Ohio county in its vote upon the road bond issue last May not only rejected State aid but National aid as well. In other words we refused to spend on our roads $3.00 when we would have had to pay out of our pocket only $1.00. As we see the matter this looks like a piece of fine financing upon our part. (?)

Papers quote Candidate Wilson in a speech at Detroit lately as saying that he was unalterably opposed to butting into Mexico and Mexico's affairs. What we wish to know is, who butted in when a demand was made that a certain flag be saluted, which wasn't? Who butted in when Vera Cruz was occupied, some blood shed and the occupants turned right around and right out again? Who butted in when a certain Mexican lost control of the government virtually thru the acts of an adjoining neighbor? Who butted in when bandit Villa was furnished arms, ammunition, conferred with, petted and rubbed until the fur became slick? Who butted in when Carranza became the whole cheese south of the Rio Grande? And we wish to know who butted in when Sammy's soldiers were sent hundreds of miles into Mexican territory, many of whom spilled their gore upon the cactus dotted deserts and will never return. We notice further down in said speech that Mr. Wilson stated: "The way to establish our sovereignty is to respect Mexico's." We thought that our sovereignty had been established long ago; that it had been bought and paid for by the blood of our forefathers. Yes, more than once, tho we are aware that our sovereignty has lately been questioned to some extent. When a de-horned butterin forgets that he has been short of his antlers he would do well to pick out a soft place, because there is going to be quite a rebound and stars intended for the butted may be seen only by the butter.

HUGHES TO TOUR WESTERN COAST

EX. JUSTICE PLANS TO START WESTERN TRIP IN AUGUST.

BLISS TO BE TREASURER

At Conference Recently Held Cornelius N. Bliss Was Selected.

New York, July 12.—Charles E. Hughes continued here to-day the weekly conferences which he has held with party leaders since making Bridgehampton his summer home. With Chairman Willcox, of the Republican National Committee, Senator Penrose, W. Murray Crane, Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, and many others the nominee discussed his tentative campaign programme. His advisers unanimously indorsed his proposal to make a trip to the Pacific coast beginning early in August.

After a conference with Mr. Hughes, Chairman Willcox announced that Cornelius N. Bliss has been selected as treasurer of the National Committee to succeed George R. Sheldon and that Fred W. Upham, of Chicago, would be in charge of the Western end of the work. Mr. Upham's headquarters will be in Chicago. Mr. Bliss is the son of the late Cornelius N. Bliss, who was treasurer of the committee during the campaign which resulted in Theodore Roosevelt's election.

Invited To Chicago.
Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, invited Mr. Hughes to open at Chicago the speechmaking on the proposed Western trip. The invitation was taken under advisement and the indications are that it will be accepted. Mr. Hughes told Mayor Thompson that he would try to arrange to speak in Chicago early in August.

Mayor Thompson was asked as to the truth of reports that he came here to protest to the nominee against the appointment of Harold L. Ickes, Progressive leader of Illinois, to the Campaign Committee.

"I am for anybody whose appointment will help elect Mr. Hughes," he said. "I think we should all get together."

Penrose Sees Hughes.
Senator Penrose had a long talk with the nominee, at the conclusion of which Mr. Penrose said he was going to take his "coat off and go to work."

Mr. Hughes' suggestion that the notification ceremony be held in this city has been received with a division of opinion by his advisers. Chairman Willcox told the nominee to-day that he thought the ceremony would better be held at Bridgehampton and others have taken the same view. If Mr. Hughes sees Chairman Harding, of the Notification Committee to-morrow, as he hopes to, the question probably will be definitely settled then.

Frederick C. Tanner, chairman of the New York State Republican Committee; Albert P. Langtry, Secretary of State of Massachusetts; R. K. Otis, president of the Chicago Hughes Alliance; Eugene R. Pike, City Controller of Chicago, and W. J. Norton, of Chicago, were among the day's callers. Mr. Hughes went for an automobile ride to-night and will return to-morrow afternoon to Bridgehampton.

VICE PRESIDENTS EVEN HAVE THEIR TROUBLES

Washington, July 8.—Vice President and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall consider themselves the victims of tough luck. A longing desire to be in their own home drove them away from the hotel quarters. Last night they planned to spend under their own vine and figtree with a little home cooking by way of a treat. When they undertook to light the gas, however, it flared up an uncontrollable torch and refused to be harnessed. Today Mark Thistlethwaite, the Vice President's secretary, called up the gas office and was told that the gas man could not come around until next Tuesday to regulate the flow.

"But I am asking this for the Vice President," he insisted.

"What difference does that make? He can take his turn with the rest," came the saucy rejoinder. Tonight the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall are back under the hotel roof.

AUSTRIAN MAN O' WAR GETS BUSY

FOUR IF NOT FIVE BRITISH ARMORED PATROLS SENT TO THE BOTTOM.

Berlin, July 11 (by wireless to Saville).—The Austrian Admiralty announced to-day that an Austrian cruiser had sunk four or five British armored patrol boats. Only nine men from the British vessels were rescued.

The announcement follows: "Our cruiser Novara met a group of four, or according to the declarations of prisoners, five British armored patrol boats off Otranto road (at the lower end of the Adriatic). All of the patrol boats were destroyed by artillery fire. All the steamers sank in flames, three of them after the explosion of their boilers. The Novara was able to rescue only nine members of the British crews."

The Novara is a scout cruiser of 3,354 tons displacement. She had figured in several engagements in the Adriatic. The Straits of Otranto is between the heel of Italy and the Albanian coast connecting the Adriatic and Ionian seas.

STRAY STREAKS.

(By Fluke McFluke.)

I notice by the fashion papers that some of those high society, aristocratic bathing girls at least wear smiles.

One of Hartford's citizens had a stack of hay take a crazy notion as though it was going to topple over last Sunday morning just at Sunday School time. It is said that about a dozen would-be Sunday School goers embraced the opportunity of lending a helping hand in straightening this hay stack up, and missing Sunday School.

I was just wondering if any suckers ever got tangled up in the garb of those bathing girls.

We spoke last week about the mustache Al is attempting to grow and believe me it is some mustache. Yes, it is even being talked of and inquired about in other States. We noticed a card this morning from a young lady in another state which especially asked how the mustache was coming, also requesting a picture of said mustache when it was full grown. Think Al ought to use some sort of hair tonic on his upper lip.

Life's Mysteries.

When speaking of the big guys or aristocrats, you say Hon. so and so has taken a house on—Boulevard or that said so and so has taken a cottage on—Court, or perhaps it will be on—Lake side, and then you say John Jones or Bill Smith has rented and moved into a house on Market St., or into a house in Poor Ridge neighborhood.

Our wife's been raising the A. M. Eagle for a Ford Automobile, since I told her that no one never even saw a tramp riding in a Ford the subject just dropped.

We haven't inspected the Deutschland yet and as a matter of strict neutrality propose reserving our judgment as to the manner of vessel she may be until we talk the matter over with Al, who is spending a month in Ashland this week.

Judge Wilson says, says he, I wonder what John Allen will break next.

With the water cooler, ice and &c., in the back room with that new printer of ours, A. Petty, it's a darn poor chance poor old FTake ever has gittin' uv his share of that air Burd Wiser. Yisterdy we picked up nigh on to a half dozen or so of them botel tops which we traded to a boy for an evenin post, that was all we got too.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

H CO. NOW IDLE AT FORT THOMAS

MEMBERS COMPLAINING OF TOO LITTLE WORK—ANXIOUS TO MOVE.

GET 2ND SHOT IN ARM

More Troublesome Than The First Was Second Vaccine Treatment.

Company H continues to wonder, worry and fret over the long delay in getting on the road to the border. Not that they want to be rushed off to the sands under derby hats and in blue serge trousers but rather a sense of indignant exasperation at the seeming slowness with which this great country of ours is furnishing equipment. And the worst feature of it is that we can offer no criticism when we consider the miles of red tape it takes to make a step. What we can't see is—why, with all the resources of this wonderfully rich nation, complete fighting machines can't be had for the mere handful of National Guardsmen and be had at once. The men are being held here at Fort Thomas and will be kept doing nothing for days yet and all that has been accomplished, so far, is the making out of the muster-in rolls. Only a part of the physical examination has been completed. Almost nothing toward developing the various elements of an army into fighting units has been done. There are numbers of men in the various commands who have been transported to the mobilization camp and held under arms nearly twenty days, at an approximate cost of fifty dollars per man, who can not execute right and left face correctly. Furthermore, a large per cent of them will be rejected in the physical examination and sent home again without doing more than showing that they are of the patriotic strain and are willing.

The second shot in the arm was given on Thursday. This time it wasn't so funny. Several Company H men were considerably under the weather the day after. A drowsy aching sensation all over the body is the effect described by all. And the worst of it was, we went on guard that evening at five-thirty and the men had to walk post for two hour stretches with all that aching sensation and those swollen shoulders. It was tough at the time but by now all that is forgotten and almost every man feels perfectly well and fit for duty. The good humor displayed by the men in general is a feature of the stay in quarters.

Sunday the grounds swarmed with visitors from Newport, Covington and Cincinnati. At retreat all of the company commanders seemed to be afraid to take their men out on the parade grounds for drill on account of the thousands of eyes which were eager to see some action. Co. H took the field and gave the crowd a treat by executing some difficult movements with a snap and swing which received applause from both citizens and idle soldiers.

So many of the companies of the First Regiment having lost about thirty per cent of their men in the physical examination we were anxiously waiting to see what the average was going to be in the Third. Up to the present time three or four companies in the Third have passed the test and lost very few and we are somewhat reassured. Those of Co. H who have reason to think they may be rejected still have hope; those who are reasonably certain to pass want the thing over with just as soon as possible so that nothing but red tape may separate them from the cynosure of all their eyes—the border. It is absolutely certain that a few men of H Company will be denied the apple of their eye, so the folks at home may as well prepare to offer condolences to the heavy hearted patriots who will soon return with no hope. The test is very rigid and no favorites are played in this examination.

The writer is enclosing a letter from Mr. C. A. Denny, of Greenville, who is the father of Private Lewis A. Denny, to Capt. DeWeese. This letter, we think, is an example of true patriotism in the highest sense of the word and we hope the editor may make such use of it as will bring out its thought and purpose.

The following is the muster-roll of Co. H, 3rd K. N. G. When the new equipment and uniforms are issued to these men they are going to present an appearance which it would do the people of Ohio county good to look upon. They are going to be soldiers. They already outshine most of the companies present:

Narrow Escape.

Farm demonstrator W. W. Browder came near having a serious accident last Wednesday morning while crossing Slaty Creek, near Prentiss, this county. The previous heavy rains had swollen the stream to a depth far beyond Mr. Browder's estimate. When he drove into the swiftly running water, which came considerably above the buggy seat, the horse and conveyance were washed around and shaken up very much. Mr. Browder succeeded in getting the horse and buggy safely landed with only the loss of his hand bag and probably a few other loose articles which were in the buggy.

London, July 10.—Urban H. He did not disclose their total value, however. Transfers of American securities are being made to aid the government in paying for armament in the United States.

Profit-Sharing Sale!

Begins Saturday, July 15th. - - - Closes Saturday, July 29th.

To Share in the Profits You Must Pay Cash or Produce Checks for Your Purchases.

Merchandise Charged Will be at Regular Prices.

Once more we come to you with the announcement of our Semi-Annual Profit-Sharing Sale. Considering the merchandise situation. The scarcity of almost everything that is dependable and high-class. The weekly advances that are being added to the prices that are already, we think, beyond a reasonable limit. That some very popular colors can't be had at all on account of the dye situation. That the great struggle in Europe is still raging in all its fury. That prices will continue to soar until peace is restored. Considering all these contributory elements toward a scarcity of merchandise and high prices, it looks unreasonable and unbusiness-like to slaughter the prices of good merchandise to perpetuate our profit-sharing habit.

But We've Looked on Both Sides of the Picture.

Upon looking over the records of the season's business we find our customers have been more loyal than ever. That many old customers have brought in new ones. That the merchandise we offer was bought twenty-five per cent cheaper than to-day's prices. What better way could we show our appreciation and increase our customers' interest in this store as their business home, add a few new customers to our list? However, our loss will be our customers' gain, and it will all be in the family anyway.

Seasonable necessities are at your disposal in abundance. We have made every provision possible for a GREAT BARGAIN TREAT. Every odd lot and odd thing from every department will be slashed with the profit-sharing knife. Thousands of yards of Loom-End Calicoes, Lawns, Poplins, Batistes, Voiles, white

BEAVER DAM, KENTUCKY.

SHARK KILLS 2 JERSEY BATHERS

STANLEY FISHER, TO BOYS' RESCUE, HAS LOSING BATTLE WITH MANEATER.

Manhattan, N. J., July 12.—Lester Stillwell, 12 years old, was killed by a man-eating shark while bathing in an arm of Raritan Bay near here this afternoon. Stanley Fisher, 24 years old, who went to his aid, was so badly injured in a struggle with the sea monster that he died while being taken to a Long Branch hospital. Joseph Dunn, 12 years old, bathing some distance away, in the same inlet, was attacked by a shark and one of his legs was so lacerated it probably will have to be amputated.

This is the third time within two weeks that sharks have claimed the lives of bathers along the New Jersey coast. Charles E. Van Sant, a youth of Philadelphia, was killed by one off Beachhaven, N. J., on July 2. Charles Bruder, of Springlake, N. J., was attacked and both legs taken off by a shark on July 6. He died while men who went to his rescue were carrying him ashore.

A dozen or more boys, who also were bathing in the inlet, heard Stillwell's screams for help. Fisher, who was standing on the bank, went to the rescue. He had gone only a few feet when the shark attacked him, tearing a piece out of one thigh.

In spite of his wound Fisher caught the boy up in his arms and had started for shore when the shark renewed the attack. Burdened as he was, Fisher was helpless and the shark snapped off his leg. Fisher released his hold on Stillwell and himself sank beneath the surface, unconscious.

Headless of the danger another boy sprang into the inlet and dragged Fisher out. No trace of young Stillwell was found and it is believed he was devoured by the shark.

The Dunn boy, according to persons who were standing on the bank of the inlet, also was attacked soon after going into the water, an elder brother and another boy went to his rescue. They succeeded in driving off the shark, but not until after the younger Dunn's leg had been torn almost to shreds from the knee down. He is expected to recover.

NARROWS.

A lot of news is going to waste about Narrows, so I shall try to gather it.

The event of the season just now is blackberrying. Crop of berries fine and crop of chiggers a record breaker. We pick berries by day and scratch by night.

The crop of wheat and Democrats is light, but grass and corn fine. A. R. Renfrow, the ginseng king, has put Narrows on the auto map. Of course it is a Ford. He is so generous in taking Narrows out for a drive that even the berry pickers won't use a drop of gasoline to kill chiggers with lest they miss a ride. A. R. burns auto-juice and incidentally burns the wind. If his present ratio of increasing speed continues Barney Oldfield's record will soon look like thirty cents.

When it looked (to the Democrats) like we were in for a scrap with Mexico these fellows here who have been chorusing "he has kept us out

HEAT FLASHES, DIZZY, NERVOUS

Mrs. Wynn Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her During Change of Life.

Richmond, Va.—"After taking seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new woman. I always had a headache during the Change of Life and was also troubled with other bad feelings common at that time—dizzy spells, nervous feelings and heat flashes. Now I am in better health than I ever was and recommend your remedies to all my friends."—Mrs. LENA WYNN, 2812 E. O Street, Richmond, Va.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness.

For these abnormal conditions do not fail to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

of war" cheered up a few days and then attacked Justice Hughes' whiskers. We were at a loss to answer such a convincing argument until Dad Maples retorted "well Hughes aint goin' in by a close shave, anyhow. We Narrows people don't hold any grudge against the Mexicans. A recruiting officer stayed here a week and didn't find a recruit.

The corn crop here is in excellent condition, and with a fair season will make a record crop. Fruits, except the small ones are extremely poor.

Miss Dollie Bean, of Owensboro, is visiting Miss Cecil Kuykendoll.

Miss Lagrata Kirby, of Owensboro, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Hattie Willis, of Owensboro, is visiting her father, Dr. W. L. Lawrence.

J. H. Thomas, of this place, complains of being a victim of his namesake at Beaver Dam. Mr. Thomas says he stood the cussing of irate taxpayers for his failure as a member of the grievance committee sent to Frankfort to get a reduction of the raise in Ohio county's assessment by the State Board of Equalization, that he tolerated the gibes of his friends at his name appearing as a member of the committee on resolutions at the late Ohio county Democratic convention but he says the limit was reached when he was awakened at day-break Monday morning to answer a long distance telephone call about some darned ditch work of which he had never heard before.

Narrows is getting to be a pretty dry place. We haven't had a shower of rain nor a jug of liquor shipped in for three weeks.

OWENSBORO TRYING TO BE RID OF VICE

That vice conditions in Owensboro, would be broken up, and broken up very promptly was indicated Wednesday by Mayor Hickman in a talk to the members of the police department. The city officers were notified to meet with the mayor in his office at 2:30 o'clock. Upon their arrival the mayor went into conditions relating to immoral houses, gambling and other illegal practices. He informed the assembled officers that he wanted them to familiarize themselves with the ordinances governing these matters and to see that they were enforced. A bulletin to the officers, outlining their respective duties along these lines will be issued today.

The mayor stated that, it would be at least a week before the complete transcript of the record in the police committee investigation would be completed. The work of transcribing the stenographic notes of the proceeding has not been completed.—Owensboro Messenger.

IN COUNTY COURT

110 YEARS AGO

PRACTICE IN VOGUE AS SHOWN BY RECORDS MORE THAN CENTURY AGO.

November Called Court, 1806.

At a court of inquiry called and held at the Court House in Hartford on Saturday, the 8th day of November, 1806, for the examination of William Higgins, charged with hog-stealing. Samuel McGrady, Thomas Moseley, Anthony Thomson, Esquires present.

The prisoner being brought to the bar in custody of the Sheriff and it being demanded of him whether he was guilty of the hogstealing and felony charge against him saith that he is in no wise guilty thereof. Whereupon sundry witnesses being sworn and examined as well on the behalf of the Commonwealth as of the prisoner at the bar and the prisoner being heard in his defence, it is the opinion of the court on mature deliberation that the said William Higgins is not guilty of the hogstealing and felony charged against him and proclamation being made as the manner is, and nothing further being alleged against him, it is therefore considered and ordered by the court that the said Higgins be thereof discharged and acquitted.

Ordered that the flesh of the hog now here produced in court as stolen by said Higgins be returned to him.

The court dissolved.

LATEST WAR NEWS

Monday.

Western Front.—The French have carried German positions east of Flaucourt on a front of two and a half miles and to a depth of from two-thirds of a mile to a mile and a third. They also have captured the village of Biaches, according to the official statement issued by the Paris War Office.

The British troops have made a "steady progress in the face of stubborn opposition" in the neighborhood of Avillers, on the Somme front. Two German counter attacks near the Bois des Trones were repulsed.

Eastern Front.—Important gains by the Russians are announced in the Petrograd War Office statement. In Southern Galicia the railway town of Delatyn has been captured. In the drive toward Kovel the Russians have taken two more villages. On the Lower Stokhod the Teutonic forces are retiring in great disorder.

Tuesday.

France.—In a brilliant attack the French have carried Hill 97, a height which dominates the Somme south-east of Biaches, according to the official statement issued by the French War Office. After the sixth desperate attack the Germans succeeded in entering Trones wood, according to the British official statement. This was at the expense of very heavy casualties, the statement adds, and the fighting in the wood continues.

Russia.—The German defense along the Stokhod River has been unable to stay the progress of the Russians, who have crossed the river at various points. The latest communication from the Russian general headquarters shows that the two opposing armies are in the midst of a terrific struggle for possession of the river.

Austria.—The fighting between the Italians and Austrians continues with undiminished fury, the Austrian report describing the repulse of Alpine forces, more than 800 Italian dead being left before the Austrian forces.

Wednesday.

France.—The capture of the whole of the Germans' first system of defense on a front of nearly eight miles, after ten days and nights of continuous fighting, is announced in the official report from British headquarters in France. The number of prisoners taken exceeds 7,500. The British have finally captured the fiercely contested town of Contalmaison after desperate day and night fighting and now are holding the town against all the German counter attacks. The importance the Germans have attached to this position may be measured by the fact that they recently threw the Prussian Guards into the fighting at this point. The British also are in possession of the greater part of Mametz wood and have recaptured nearly the whole of Trones wood.

Eastern Front.—More than 271,000 prisoners have been taken during Gen. Brussloff's drive on the Eastern front, according to an official report. The Russians now are within twenty miles of Kovel.

Thursday.

Western Front.—British forces yesterday, in the face of determined German attacks, gained control of the entire Mametz Wood, which was entered the previous night by the Germans. Progress north of the Somme also is reported.

Following up their successes around Verdun, the Germans have launched a strong attack against Fort Souville. Assaults were made from the village of Fleury and the Chapitre and Vaux woods, in which Paris says the Germans lost heavily.

Russia.—The Russians report the capture of Mamakhatum, in Armenia, fifty miles west of Erzerum.

GERMAN SUBMARINE TO LOAD AND RETURN

Baltimore, July 12.—That plans are afoot to rapidly reload the submarine Deutschland and slip her out speedily on her return was indicated here to-night. A special permit was obtained for continuing the unloading to-night it is thought she will be ready to reload in the morning.

Simon N. Lake is said to have reached a satisfactory agreement with the owners of the Deutschland and abandoned his intention of libeling the vessel. Conference with agents of the Ocean Navigation company and Krupp Steel company gave rise to rumor that Lake had been invited to accept a position as consulting engineer for the company, engaging in the undersea trade.

The North German Lloyd has received from persons in all parts of the country offers running as high as $50,000 for the privilege of taking passage on the submarine on her return trip.

"We have had letters from some persons," said a representative of the company, "who said that they would pay any price that we wanted. There was one $50,000 offer, several of $10,000, and virtually scores running from $1,000 to $5,000. These we have had to refuse; nearly all of them came from Americans. There are of course thousands of Germans in this country who would like to get back to their native land, but no passengers will be carried."

The fact that the tug Thomas F. Timmons went into dry dock today for repairs gave rise to rumors that she was getting ready to return to the Virginia capes to convoy into the Chesapeake, as she did the Deutschland, the submarine, Bremen, which is reported on her way. If the local agents have any knowledge of the date the Bremen is expected they are keeping the secret closely guarded.

YAQUIS MASSACRE 200 MEXICANS

CAMP FOLLOWERS AND CARRANZA SOLDIERS ARE VICTIMS OF INDIANS.

MANY BURNED AT STAKE

Methods of Dark Ages Resorted To By Mexico's Untamed Savages.

Nogales, Ariz., July 8.—From 200 to 300 Carranza soldiers and camp followers were massacred by Broncho Yaquis early this week in Lower Sonora, according to arrivals here today. Those of the de facto detachment not killed by gunfire, it was said, were burned at the stake.

While reports place the number of dead at 300, conservative estimates made on the known disposal of troops near the scene of the massacre put the loss at 200.

Report Causes Unrest.

News of the disaster to the Carranza force has caused extreme unrest among the several thousand Yaquis and Mayos now at Empalme. While it is known that large numbers of Yaquis have joined the de facto army, there has been general disbelief that the entire Indian nation, including the Broncho or wild Yaquis, have made peace with the Mexicans. For that reason the reports of the revolt and ensuing slaughter generally are credited.

Opportunity For Slaughter.

Gen. Estrada has had several thousand troops in the Yaquis Valley, holding back the Yaquis, and it is believed the opportunity for the reported massacre came about when Estrada moved his main command north to Hermosillo and Magdalena in the course of mobilization maneuvers.

One Wife Enough.

A woman missionary in China was taking tea with a mandarin's eight wives. The Chinese ladies examined her clothing, her hair, her teeth, and so on, but her feet especially amazed them.

"Why," cried one, "you can walk and run as well as a man."

"Yes, to be sure," said the missionary.

"Can you ride a horse and swim, too?"

"Yes."

"Then you must be as strong as a man?"

"I am."

"And you wouldn't let a man beat you—not even if he was your husband—would you?"

"Indeed, I wouldn't," the missionary said.

"Now I understand why the foreign devil never has more than one wife. He is afraid."—Southern Women's Magazine.

It has no superior for the purposes for which it is intended. Buy it now. Obtainable everywhere.

Flat Feet and Patriotism.

It is not lack of patriotism that makes Uncle Sam's task of recruiting a big army a difficult task. It is flat feet and weak hearts. Despite prosperity there are thousands of young men who, under the stimulus of preparedness campaigns, have been and are offering their services to the country, but few are accepted.

The preparedness parade is having its effect. Thousands of inquiries have come into the recruiting stations by mail, telephone and by applicants in person. If only flat-footedness and weak hearts could be eliminated there would be no difficulty in getting all the men necessary.

The flat-footedness is due in a large respect to the carelessness of most men in getting proper shoes. The poor heart showing is due in a large measure to the recruiting officers say, to the increased number of cigarette smokers.

As an instance of the severity of the physical examination, the report of Capt. Frank E. Evans, recruiting officer for the marine corps, may be cited. Capt. Evans has six recruit-

ALAMO MASSACRE

Battering rams burst in the big gates of the mission compound.

The Texans fought their way by twos and threes to the inner building to make their last stand. Gaunt, blood-streaked, burning eyes, these tall men of the plains were at the end of the passage, fighting their last fight. And there was not a man of them but knew it well; and there was not a man of them but was determined to take as many Mexicans as might be down to death with him.

Amid smoke and the flame, and crash of rifle fire, lunging of knives, the swinging of clubbed guns, the light reeled back and forth among the walls. On each frontiersman's flanks there hung a pack of Santa Anna's men. You would see him beat them back, powerful arms swinging, his empty rifle like a flail, breaking men's heads, battering them to earth, clearing a space around for a while, and then, with a new rush the Mexicans would overwhelm the man and he would go down suddenly beneath the wallowing, struggling crowd of his assailants.

Too close pressed to be able to reload their guns, the Mexicans thrust and stabbed and tore with their bayonets. It was a whirlwind of destruction, utter chaos, those last minutes of fighting. Travis fell on a stairway he was holding against a surging mob of Mexicans; shot through the head, he toppled forward and was trampled to a pulp beneath their frenzied feet.

Four Mexicans went to dispatch the dying Bowie; two of them he slew with his revolver; and one with his knife before the fourth man succeeded in making an end of him.

Davy Crockett Last To Fall.

Last man of all to fall was Davy Crockett. His blood-soaked shirt clung to his mighty chest, a coat sacred the leathery skin of his face and a Mexican bullet had gone through his cheek. And with his back against a wall, his rifle long past using, he mowed with hand ax and cutlass, clearing a space around him. Lancers held him at bay while a squad of Santa Anna's riflemen was assembled and with a volley brought him to the ground. One story goes that even the tough-fibered old man was not killed, but at Santa Anna's orders was shot to death by a firing squad. Since not one defender of the Alamo survived, and history is dependent for its knowledge of details upon the story of two Mexican women and a negro boy, it is impossible to tell with certainty the last details of that fight in which wild courage flamed high to the very last.

The Mexican General had the bodies of the fort's defenders piled in a heap with chaparral and timber west of the Alamo and burned.

Four times the number of the Alamo's defenders had fallen in Santa Anna's ranks, and never was victory to cost more than this of the Mexican General. It was the turning point in Texas' fight for independence.

This stanza from a poem of James Jeffery Roche is worth remembering:

But far on San Jacinto's field the Texan toils are set,
And Alamo's dread memory the Texan steel shall whet.

And Fame shall tell their deeds who fell till all the years be run,
"Thermopylae left one alive—the Alamo left none."—Kansas City Star.

SMALLEST REPUBLIC HAS DECLARED WAR

PRESIDENT OF WERE "SPECK ON MAP" PROUD OF VALIANT ARMY OF 130 MEN.

German newspapers of recent date which have just reached New York speak in sarcastic terms of Germany's "terrible enemy," the tiny republic of Couman, of Chauani, as it is sometimes spelled, which has declared war on Germany.

This miniature republic is near the border between Brazil and French Guiana, situated about fifteen miles from the coast. It is a mere spot on the map, and little known to the outside world. It received its independence from Brazil in 1888. Its President is a Frenchman named Adolph Besset Beaufort, who has been a Colonel in the French army. When the European war began he enlisted his sympathies at once with France. The standing army of the republic at Couman then consisted of 300 men, and this little detachment was sent to France to fight on the side of the Allies under their flag, consisting of a silver star on a blood red background. Of this number about 150 have been killed. President Beaufort is very proud of his men, and receives reports regularly from his commander in which they are praised for their bravery and recommended for promotion.

That Couman is at war with Germany and Austria has only now been made public, and the German newspapers are very much amused over the matter.

The Statesman's Year Book, the Almanac de Gotha and other authorities make no mention of such a republic as Couman. The Herald Times, however, as far back as 1890 have articles and dispatches treating of attempts to make the little State in Brazil a republic. The Herald of May 7, 1915, prints a dispatch from Madrid telling of the discovery of a plot to make the territory of Couman an independent State, and gives details of the arrest of Sarron de Herrera, who was active in the conspiracy. Later Brazil sent a military force to Couman to prevent the so-called republicans from creating an insurrection. Since then there has been no mention anywhere of Couman, and it looks as if the German newspapers were just having a little fun on their own account.—New York Herald.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

In writing your letters do not say that Mr. So-and-so spent Sunday with Mr. Blank, or Mr. Blank and family took dinner with Mr. Guest, or Miss Belle spent the night with Miss Hostess. And by no means say that Mr. Romeo made his regular call at the home of Miss Juliet Sunday afternoon, etc. We do not care for that. What we want is the news. When someone from another town visits someone in your town, or vice versa, we are always glad to run it as a news item, but be careful with your selection. It is no pleasure to rewrite and scratch your copy. The Editor.

Mosquitoes On Snow Banks.

In both the Rocky Mountains and Alaska the geologists and engineers of the United States geological survey have as part of their regular equipment mosquito nets for their heads. Even when working in deep snow, head nets and gauntlets are necessary to protect the field men from the blood-thirstiness of the pests. The mosquito does not vanish with increasing altitude. At 11,000 feet, or timberline, he is as prolific as at sea level, and smoke, no matter how dense and pungent it may be, will not eradicate him. The only sure relief lies in the net. In some sections of Colorado the mountain natives let mosquitoes bite them until their systems became thoroughly inoculated with their poison. After this they are bothered no more. The first advice given to the "tent-foot" by the old-timer is, "Let 'em bite; they won't keep it up long."—Popular Science Monthly for July.

Competition.

Artist—Oh, milkmaid, if you will pose for me I'll give you a dollar an hour.

Constipation and Indigestion.

"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets and must say they are the best I have ever used for constipation and indigestion. My wife also used them for indigestion and they did her good," writes Eugene S. Knight, Warrington, N. C. Chamberlain's Tablets are mild and gentle in their action. Give them a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the agreeable laxative effect which they produce. Obtainable everywhere.

RELEASED ON PROMISE HE WOULDN'T FIGHT KAISER

London, July 15.—When a fisherman, T. E. Price, of Garth, Carnarvonshire, claimed absolute exemption before the Bangor tribunal recently he said he had been out on the gold coast. He booked passage home on the Apollon.

During the voyage they were captured by the German auxiliary cruiser Mewe and to secure his release he had to sign an undertaking that he would not take up arms against Germany or her allies.

"I trust," he said, "that I shall not be blamed for taking the only course open to me other than being taken on board the German auxiliary cruiser as prisoner."

The tribunal granted absolute exemption on condition that the applicant remain in his occupation as a fisherman.

Biliousness and Stomach Trouble.

"Two years ago I suffered from frequent attacks of stomach trouble and biliousness," writes Miss Emma Vestryke, Lima, Ohio. "I could eat very little food that agreed with me and I became so dizzy and sick at my stomach at times that I had to take hold of something to keep from falling. Seeing Chamberlain's Tablets advertised I decided to try them. I improved rapidly." Obtainable everywhere.

Hale and Works at 103.

Joseph Riopelle, of Ware, is probably the most active man of his age in Massachusetts; he has just passed his 104th birthday, and he still does his share of work around the place. He saws and chops wood, takes care of the bees, cuts brush and does other chores. He enjoys a pipe or cigar. Mr. Riopelle had ten children, three of whom are still living, also five grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.
